To the Editor

I want to thank Jerry Parsons for writing the article "Inner-City Youth Programs: Guidelines" (Summer, 1971) and the Journal for printing it. It was very helpful to me in organizing some concepts I had relating to inner-city youth programs.

Having worked with inner-city youth on a limited basis for 11 years,

I agree with the program and organizational guidelines Jerry uses for developing and implementing programs.

Not only is this an excellent resource for experienced agents, but it should provide a firm foundation and framework on which new agents can build their inner-city programs.

AN OPPORTUNITY FOR YOU!

Is there a special concern or topic you'd like to see highlighted in the Journal? Whom would you suggest to write an article on the topic? At a recent meeting, the Editorial Committee decided that it would like to see one of the coming issues devoted to a central theme of interest to our readers. Send us your ideas for articles and potential authors. Here's your opportunity to write for the Journal in an area about which you feel strongly, or to alert us to an authority in the field who might do so.
